what I know of ishi the native american graves protection and repatriation act [NAGPRA] of 1990 [?] ishi was the last of his yahi tribe of what is now california found his way from oroville california did arts and crafts at a museum until he died in nineteen sixteen of tuberculosis his brain was kept and moved from one academic institution to another to another ishi's brain was repatriated to a neighboring california tribe where it was laid to rest

I came to learn of ishi after NAGPRA was passed

I ordered a copy of ishi the middle reader book to have on my shelf from the bookseller decluttr books of kennesaw georgia through amazon dot com decluttr books sent me a copy of the divine comedy instead which said divine comedy on the spine of the book and inferno written on the cover of course written by dante the divine comedy is of course a comedy rather than a tragedy and is inclusive of inferno and purgatorio and paradiso I have read the entirety of divine comedy previously though the book was not ishi so I ordered another copy of ishi from decluttr books and they sent me a copy of thin thighs in thirty days by wendy stehling

 of a different book and I ordered another copy of ishi and they sent me a different book again in all there were thirteen ishi book orders from decluttr books that I placed and I received thirteen books none of which were ishi in addition to the above mentioned books the following eleven books I received instead of an ordered ishi two nineteen ninety eight twelve inches new snow a hike upward the side of the run up two thousand two hundred vertical feet to a ski patrol hut with ski poles five hundred vertical feet of which were an ascent of a steep mogul run which had a crust by which I would break through up to my knees causing great difficulty in making the next step to take a break I would turn around and plop my behind into the snow as a throne to take a breath three climbed a hill with brown grass two feet tall around the time before thanksgiving with some snow in the air I was with a friend and we hiked to the top lift station approximately twelve hundred vertical feet caught our breath and hiked half way down the individual I was hiking with climbed one of the lift towers all the way to the top and proceeded to climb onto one of the swinging chairs at forty feet above the ground and hung out there looking around at the beautiful sight he eventually climbed down and we completed our downward hike the brown grass would be replaced by groomed snow within two weeks

as a skiwee childrens ski instructor a child would learn by following me down the ski hill at one lesson a child's ski came off and the child just sat down when I looked up the ski hill I noticed the child I proceeded to hike up the ski hill with my own skis on reaching the child fifty feet uphill to assist them in putting on their skis that we finish our run time and categorical time time is constant

categorical time reflects a social condition local time is in consideration of greenwich mean time upon the rotation and orbit of the planet earth the other planets in the solar system rotate and orbit at their varied rates each differing in the duration of their rotations and orbits earth I consider as reference to local time earth I consider as reference to ordinary time the solar system is the frame of ordinary time as a social consideration exterior to the solar system for example were there nine solar systems orbiting an astronomical object each may or may not have their own established common time as socially founded relationally to their solar center

the nine solar systems orbiting the astronomical object would have a referential time as well because of their common astronomical object which they orbit thus the super system would have nine established common times within the super system and the super system itself could have a referential time as established by a social agreement

time is constant

categorical time reflects a consideration of social categories as people wear watches categorical time regarding a solar system reflects a solar center and a sense of common schedules among those inhabitants moving among its planets categorical time regarding a super system may be a consideration of established common time of a particular one of its solar systems though considerably it would have its own center not a solar center necessarily and its own referential time as a lesser constant than constant though categorical in relation to the nine solar systems within experimental in many ways such as camera technology prop experimentation and viewing arrangements as well as subject development into complexity and returning to simplicity and returning to complexity that a spectrum of subject matter and presentation is acceptable were there a consideration of the idea of film in its social existence perhaps as a medium of fiction and nonfiction and creative nonfiction in addition to other media such as radio and television and print an idea of media in general including film is that a production may or may not change the social subject itself as a matter of being studied for example a war film filmed in actual military conflict of friendly soldiers or war itself or interviews may serve to dissolve dissipate prevent a conflict another for example a film documenting homelessness may serve to demonstrate a problem of homelessness to an audience though the homeless themselves may not be served a further consideration of film is its historical value as that on record with the library of congress for example

I enjoy film

I plan on two hours for a film at the theater occasionally attending alone

I watch film at home as well film should hold an audients attention thus their interpretation upon the films conclusion shared or no the writers imagination cannot always be operationalized do I not hold a camera at a beach with a friend though what to consider a film and
